Captivating Poetry and Prose collection by 16-year-old Canadian teenager.

The pain, the betrayal, lost friendships, first unrequited love bled from his soul, seeped through his fingers and into the words and sentences on a laptop. The images born in his mind lived on paper.

Three years of poetry filled with despair and hope went into this book and were conserved as the time capsule of his teenagehood.

Writing gave him a purpose to live, a desire to share his thoughts, emotions, and experiences, a will to connect with the world through rhythm and line.

Ideas with Ink has delved into each vast corner of one's mind, and the resultant prose and poetry creates mental illustrations which are so stunning... yet so tragic.

Rosie Malezer, author

The imagery and depth that goes into the thoughts are colorful, insightful, and intense. Ideas with Ink has published a wonderful book that other teenagers and adults will enjoy reading.

Barbara Fanson, author

Time Capsule invites the reader to look deeper into the existential themes of life — love, life itself, dreams, death, and a lot more.
